Hartford Technologies is the Leader for Standard and Custom Plastic Bearings

Our goal is to partner with you in identifying the best possible alternatives for your next project!

Hartford is a world leader in the development, engineering, testing and manufacturing of custom cage bearings, standard and custom plastic bearings and bearing assemblies. Modifications to standard bore or OD, special features such as thin sections, or the addition of other assembled parts can be engineered and designed quickly to ensure the proper fit for the application. Show us the envelope you're working with and Hartford will design, prototype and manufacture a standard or custom bearing or assembly that will deliver performance, service life and low per-piece cost.

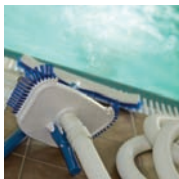

Hartford Technologies uses primarily engineered plastics such as Acetal (POM) and Nylon, which provide high strength with superior impact and fatigue resistance, for its custom plastic bearings. Depending on the application, we also manufacture using high grade Teflon (PTFE), polypropylene (PP), and polyethylene (PE).

Hartford supplies plastic bearings and assemblies for applications as diverse as automotive seat tracks, photo processing equipment, material handling equipment, office machines, exercise equipment, packaging systems, medical devices and wash-down conveyors.

Hartford is ISO 9001 and ISO/TS 16949 certified; APQP is used to ensure that product designs exceed customers' expectations.

Hartford's ability to supply fast-turnaround prototypes allows different designs to be quickly evaluated, and our ability to manufacture on both sides of the globe produces substantial advantages in cost, lead time, and logistics. Send us your application drawings or components today.
